About this document

This document updates data previously compiled from the U.S. Census Bureau American Community Survey (ACS) for municipalities in Allegheny County, Pennsylvania. For more information on the background and methodology for the data compiled here, refer to the report Profiles of Change in Allegheny County: Comparison of 2008-2012 and 2018-2022 American Community Survey Estimates for Allegheny County Municipalities, released June 2024 and available on the website for the University Center for Social and Urban Research (UCSUR): <https://ucsur.pitt.edu/>.

This document incorporates the latest five-year estimates distributed by the ACS for the 2019-2023 period and includes comparable data for the decade-earlier period: 2009-2013. The ACS conducts surveys of residents across the nation throughout the year and produces annual updates on population characteristics across a broad range of socioeconomic topics for geographic areas with populations greater than 65,000. For smaller geographic areas, the ACS produces estimates generated from data aggregated over five years of survey responses. Within Allegheny County, the City of Pittsburgh is the only municipality with a large enough population to be included in one-year ACS data releases. For all other municipalities in Allegheny County, only five-year ACS estimates data is available.

The ACS is just one source of data on population change. The Census Bureau also produces the decennial census, which is a complete enumeration of the nation's population every ten years. The decennial census is the best reference for population counts for a specific geography in the United States, but it produces only a specific set of demographic data limited primarily to population counts by age, race, and gender for a given area. Between decennial years, the Census Bureau also produces annual population estimates based on administrative and other data sources. Annual population estimates provide only limited data on changes in population characteristics at the county level, and only population counts for individual municipalities.

In contrast to both the decennial census and annual population estimates, the ACS provides data across a range of economic and demographic topics. However, estimates produced by the ACS are subject to sampling and non-sampling errors. The Census Bureau advises that the ACS should principally be used to obtain population characteristics (percents, means, medians, and rates) rather than specific population counts.

While ACS estimates for the 2019-2023 period is the most recent five-year data available as of January 2025 when this report was produced, it nonetheless represents historical data collected between two and six years prior. Any trends identified by comparing the two periods of data compiled here can be interpreted as change over a ten-year period. Not all trends that can be identified in these profiles have necessarily continued, and some trends may have accelerated. These profiles are intended to be just one data source to be used in conjunction with other data to assist those studying change across municipalities.

Data used to produce these profiles will also be made available via the Western Pennsylvania Regional Data Center (WPRDC): <https://www.wprdc.org/>. This report was prepared by Regional Economist Christopher Briem (cbriem@pitt.edu) of the Urban and Regional Analysis Program at the University of Pittsburgh's University Center for Social and Urban Research (UCSUR).

Regional Profiles

In addition to municipal profiles, included here are individual data profiles for the United States and three subareas of southwestern Pennsylvania, including the Pittsburgh Metropolitan Statistical Area (MSA), Allegheny County, and the seven counties of the Pittsburgh MSA that are outside of Allegheny County.

Note the Pittsburgh Metropolitan Area (MSA) is currently defined as eight counties in southwestern Pennsylvania: Allegheny, Armstrong, Beaver, Butler, Fayette, Lawrence, Washington, and Westmoreland. The Pittsburgh MSA was recently redefined in 2023 to include Lawrence County for the first time. Previously the Pittsburgh MSA was defined as seven counties. The data profile for the Pittsburgh MSA here reflects the current eight-county definition of the MSA in both time periods. The figure below shows the current definition of the Pittsburgh MSA.
